Faith Foundations

Being part of the body of Christ includes living a life of hospitality.

For the church, that involves the traditional roles of being part of the church community and welcoming new people to worship.

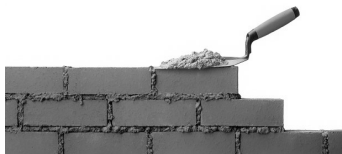

But it also includes our personal relationships with (and our acceptance of) people who are outside the church and quite unlike us, even to the point of

Each week we offer a way to help build a life of faith

intentionally building relationships with persons beyond the church in order to embody Christ's love for them.

Most people who walk through a church door do so because they were invited by someone with whom they have an existing relationship. We have opportunities to convince people to meet Jesus on the strength of their relationship to us.
